WEEK OF MANY ACCIDENTS

Automobiles Wrecked on Reading Road, But No Loss of Life.
Miraculous Escape of Small Boy Run Over by Machine on Main Street.

Three people were injured when two automobiles were in collision on the Reading road near the residence of Fred Smith Wednesday evening about nine o'clock. Earl O. Glenn of 36 College Hill, West Somerville, his sister Mrs. J. J. Winters, and her baby, all sustained cuts from flying glass as well as bruises.

The accident occurred when Glenn, who was driving toward Andover, in attempting to pass a truck going in the same direction, collided with a car owned and driven by Miss Grace D. Winans of Cleveland, Ohio, which was proceeding toward Reading. Mr. Glenn cut over to the car tracks on his left and the autos came together on the track. The Winans car struck the Glenn auto broadside, damaging the front door and the right mudguard. The Winans car was also badly damaged, the front axle being bent, the bumper twisted out of shape, the headlights and radiator smashed. The machines blocked the street cars for a time.

Miss Winans had neither her license or registration card with her, but in her Stearns runabout was Millington K. Northrop of the American Radiator Co., 987 Essex street, Lawrence, who had an operator's license. The runabout was towed to Lawrence for repairs, while the Glenn machine, a Liberty touring car, was able to proceed. The marks of the wheels showed that the brakes were set at least 60 feet from where the two machines crashed. No arrests were made by the Andover police.

Another Somerville car that was owned by John A. Nugent of 19 Crocker street, also suffered mishap on Sunday evening near the residence of Fred Smith on the Reading road.

Mr. Nugent stopped his machine near the tracks and while he was putting on his overcoat an electric car driven by Motorman Ward struck the automobile throwing Mr. Nugent's wife and child to the road. Mrs. Nugent suffered injuries to her back.

WIN FIRST GAME

Smith and Dove Defeat K. of C. in Opening Game of Town Series.
Second Game to be Played Saturday on Playstead.

The Smith & Dove team won the first game in the series with the Andover K. C.'s at the Smith & Dove field, Andover, Wednesday night by the score of 3 to 2. All the scoring was done in the last three innings and the Andover K. C.'s had three men on when the game ended.

The Smith & Doves were the first to score, getting a run in the fifth when with one down, Partridge was hit by a pitched ball. He moved up on Hyde's single and scored when Dutch Dushame let White's grounder go through him. In the sixth, the Smith & Doves tallied two more. Dimlich singled. Lynch was passed. Both moved up on Porter's sacrifice. Dalton's double brought the two across.

In the seventh, the K. C.'s scored two. Cronin tripled. He scored on Dushame's hit. Temple went out at first. Trow hit to Sullivan and Dushame went out at third. Bowman was passed. King bunted and the bases were filled. Veit was hit by a pitched ball, forcing Trow in. Jimmy Welch went out on a grounder to Dimlich.

The last field day of the season, with the presentation of the pageant "The Spirit of Camp Andover" and an exhibition of the girls' proficiency in swimming, was held at Pomp's pond, on Saturday.

The pageant, arranged by Miss Faith Wiggins, one of the camp counselors, and successfully presented by the younger girls two weeks ago, was repeated by the older girls in the green amphitheatre with its charming background of birches and evergreens and was much enjoyed by the many guests present from Boston and Andover.

The following took part:—

Prologue—Catherine Haight, Second church, Dorchester.

Spirit of Generosity—Agnes Ballantyne, Phillips church, South Boston.

Camp Andover spirits:—

Spirit of Love—Annie Colquhoun, Phillips church, South Boston.

Service—Mildred Creber, Roxbury.

The second annual Whiz-Bang of the Smith and Dove Athletic Association and the Smith and Dove Girls' club held under ideal weather conditions, Saturday, attracted a crowd of nearly 1500.

From ten in the morning until the closing hour there was always in some part of the extensive grounds a "whiz," and at intervals there was a "bang." The arrangements of the committee were splendid and if they had included the weather in their plans they could not have had better. The field was beautiful in the bright sunshine; around the diamond and soccer field the stalls were set for the midway, and in the evening the electric bulbs strung around the field gave the appearance of a gigantic lawn party; later when the moonlight flooded the scene and the bustle of the day had given place to the strains of the orchestra, it was a pleasant and pretty ending to Andover's outdoor carnival.

About fifteen hundred passed the entrance and most of that throng were on the grounds through the long day. Baseball for men and women, track events in which the girls again had their share, and soccer (the only sport confined to men, and this also may have the girls included next year if this enterprising association keeps the pace it has set), and last, dancing on a large platform, made up the day's program. This last event was the one in which the ladies had the most entries and in which they outdid their brothers.

During the afternoon the Essex County Training school band played many selections and the seats around their stand were filled with an appreciative audience.

The "Kewpie Doll" booth and the Chocolate Box booth ran close rivals for the honor of doing the most business, while the sandwich and hot-dog stands

SELWYN

These August nights find the Selwyn theatre in Boston filled with laughter as that theatre is tenanted by Gilda Varesi in Brock Pemberton's Production of "Enter Madame," that wholly delightful and diverting comedy which for 43 weeks of the recent theatrical year in New York, was an outstanding success. Coming to the Hub City, for a limited engagement, as an early season attraction, Miss Varesi and her irresistibly appealing play (of which she is the author) found immediate and lasting favor with Bostonian theatregoers.

While a season's run in New York cannot always be taken as a criterion of a play's excellence, nevertheless in this instance the judgment of the metropolis was sound, for "Enter Madame" has a clever plot and clever lines, wonderfully conceived and artistically executed and touched throughout with the magic wand of Gilda Varesi's splendid artistry. The play was written by Miss Varesi in collaboration and "Madame" is her character — one to which she gives a delightful genuineness of interpretation. Madame Lisa Della Robbia is an opera star and when the curtain rises on the first act her husband, who has not seen her in five years is being ministered to by a widow, Mrs. Flora Preston. The husband is, to tell the truth, phantasmagoric just a wee wee bit, having notified the turbulent Madame who is in Europe that he is going to obtain a divorce. So far, so good, but — Madame decides to come to America, and then the fun begins, for Madame is not only tempestuous but she has that artistic temperament, and — that means a great deal. But to divulge too much by telling how, even after the divorce is granted, she wins him back to her, would not be fair to those who are going to attend the performance. Suffice it to say that it is all admirably developed and brilliantly set forth.

Miss Varesi will be recalled by our theatregoers as a featured member of the companies supporting Mrs. Fiske and Doris Keane. With the latter, Miss Varesi appeared in "Romance," originating the part of the old opera singer, and, in London, playing Miss Keane's role during the star's vacation. In 1919 Miss Varesi appeared as the blind girl in "The Jest" and while John Barrymore was abroad she assumed his role in the piece.

Henry Stephenson, Jane Meredith and Michele Burani are the principal figures of a very, very good supporting cast.

Matinee performances of "Enter Madame" are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Hints About Fall Fashions

There is a decided movement in the direction of long skirts — but women are not yet ready for the long skirt, which will be worn, if at all, on ceremonious occasions only. However, skirts everywhere are a bit longer — decidedly on the downward trend. Cheruit, at the moment, oddly sponsors a skirt which is longer in the back than in the front.

The craze for black in dress is almost amusing. Frocks and wraps alike are made of black crepe de Chine or crepe marocain — always the dull-surfaced stuffs. Black satin is worn but little, although we hear it is to be smart this winter. The greatest simplicity prevails, a frock being smart according to its simplicity. Thus do really smart women distinguish themselves from the nouveaux riches.

We see an attempt at color here and there at the races — a red hat or a colored frock under a black cloak. But in general the passions for black is so strong that even the embroidered collars and girdles which appeared on some of the models of the early season are now eliminated — the garments being made entirely in black. Gray hose is sometimes permitted.

Sleeves, if any, continue wide — the close sleeve being reserved for the close-fitting corsage. While Paris couturiers abide by a straight and slender silhouette, varied effects are achieved in diverse interpretations of the sleeve. It is unusual to find a detail of dress take up on itself such a prominent place and thus attain a position of foremost importance. Throughout this mode the Japanese influence predominates. — August Good Housekeeping.

HERE AND THERE

We received yesterday, in the shape of the letter below, a terrible warning to the hordes of "pyrites" who crowd the highways with their tents, gasoline stoves, and countless other paraphernalia. We give it to you, not as a warning but as an example, a very concrete one, of the fact that the world is divided into two classes of people, the "never agains" and the "if at firsts."

Dear Obby:
I am a disillusioned woman. Yes, I am. The nicest men in the world don't tell the truth. One of the great American ideals is tommyrot, poppycock, worse than that, deliberate fraud, and rank deception.

Are you initiated, too? Then I don't have to say I had a good time.

The limpid spring you read about wasn't within a hundred miles of our camp site. For our water we angled with a tin pail on the end of a rope in the murky depths of an old open well in the yard of a deserted house. For all we knew, a dozen dead cats were diluting there, along with a murdered wife and the former owner's mother-in-law. The only way I could drink that water was to close my eyes and pray as the stuff slid down.

No friendly cow all red and white supplied us with thick yellow cream and luscious milk. Into our dubious water we poured an unscented form of face powder, mixing it to a paste which was convenient but lumpy, with the general appearance of the dress of a pail of whitewash. With stewed coffee it made what anyone who did not tell the truth would call a delectable beverage.

The gentle murmur of the sad sea waves did not lull me to sleep. It was break, break, break, at the foot of the crag all night. The deep and dark blue ocean was rolling the stones on the bottom until I thought I should go mad. And every now and then, the surf would whack the shore with a resounding force that shook the promontory to its basic stratum and rattled every bone in my skeleton.

Along about midnight when I thought of the dampness on my brow that the death sweat was gathering, I sank gratefully into a lethargy only to be fully awakened to the perils of this life by a flashlight turned upon me. There I was, a modest retiring woman huddled upon an army cot just inside a pup tent with two raincoats, a white sweater, and a bathrobe swathed around me. Before I could shriek or invent an ingenious plea for my life, the coast guard walked on for we were camping on a point patrolled by the Life Saving Service of the United States. When I realized this, I almost screamed "The Star Spangled Banner."

Then it began to rain. Along with the rain came a few pale flashes of lightning and the sound of distant thunder. I drew my feet in out of the wet, and fastened the end of my tent. By this time my father and mother in the auto tent were awake. Father paddled out in his bare feet to see if I were all right, and scurried back to shelter when a terrific thunder clap opened the clouds above us.

How it rained! The elemental harmony on the roof of my tent was deafening. I could only occasionally hear the thunder above it. As the wind raged with hurricane speed, I expected momentarily to be blown into the ocean. The lightning dazzled me to blindness. It encircled the world and lighted up the whole sky, the earth, and the ocean. And long after the storm had spent its force, the lightning still played, chasing itself in great leaps across the horizon.

Either by the mercy of divine Providence or by the machinations of the Devil, I survived that night in a cold and clammy soggy. I was so weak that the mosquitoes, undisturbed, feasted upon me whither they would. I had not enough energy in my body even to itch.

The morning came with no glorious sunrise. Rather it oozed upon us out of the mist, and at first served only to reveal the legions of satisfied mosquitoes on the tops of our tents and the hordes of flies hanging like a pall over the promontory. The ocean had retreated in the night, leaving an evil-smelling stretch of black, slimy seaweed-covered stones.

But eventually the mists were rolled away, and a bright sun shone down from a clear blue sky. It not only shone, it scorched, sizzled, blazed. I felt like a cold-storage chicken suddenly placed on a red-hot grill. My fair flesh shivered, my delicate sunburn flamed to scarlet. I began to puff in spots, and blister.

Then we broke camp. The last thing I remember was pitching a box of dollar and a half chocolates over the cliff. They were a molten mass, approximately at the boiling point.

My last childish illusion is gone. Buried in the past with Santa and George's little hatchet, are the far-famed pleasures of camp life. After that night on Rocky Point, I shall never be the same. And my experience is not unique; it is universal. Ye who have not camped, take warning and be advised.

LIMPET.

The Office Boy

Essex Agricultural Society Fund Growing

The drive for $5000 being carried on by the Essex Agricultural Society, to pay the debt and improve the Fair Grounds is progressing finely. Splendid interest is being shown in all sections of the county and all signs point to a banner fair at Topsfield on September 23rd and 24th. The leading town to date is Ipswich, J. W. Appleton, trustee, which has contributed about $700. They are certainly setting a fast pace for the other towns to follow. Topsfield, Charles Peabody, trustee, is a close second with a total of about $600. Buxford, Chester Killam, trustee, has gone over the top with its quota and much to the surprise of all, the City of Lawrence, W. G. Fancher, Trustee, with practically no farmers to draw from, has sent in the cash for its quota. J. W. Nichols, trustee for Danvers, reports about half its quota subscribed with prospects of the remainder soon. A group of twenty merchants and farmers in Danvers under the leadership of Dr. C. S. Moore have shown their colors by offering $100 in cash for the best grade herd, headed by a pure bred sire, that is exhibited at the coming Fair. This gives the average farmers in the county, who do not own pure bred cattle, a chance to win some money, and it is expected that the competition will be keen in this class. Other towns who have sent in contributions and are trying hard to do their bit are: North Andover, John Barker, trustee; Essex, Caleb Coggeswell, trustee; Methuen, John Shirley, trustee; Beverly, Fred Dodge, trustee; Middleton, Lyman Wilkins, trustee; West Newbury, Cyrus Ordway, trustee; Andover, Samuel Bailey, trustee; Newbury, Elbridge Noyes, trustee; Rowley, G. L. Carleton, trustee; Saugus, H. H. Atherton, trustee.

Plans for the Fair are progressing rapidly. Work on the new exhibition hall has already been started. Exhibits in large numbers have been promised. An attractive premium list, containing many fine commercial advertisements, will be out soon. A large number of commercial concerns handling all kinds of farm supplies have promised to send attractive exhibits. Unless all signs fail there will be a Real Farmer Fair at Topsfield this year.

Licenses of Local Autoists Suspended

Several Lawrence and Andover men have been notified of the suspension or revocation of their licenses to operate automobiles, by Frank A. Goodwin, state registrar of motor vehicles. Among them are:

Henry F. Dearborn, 193 Garden street, Lawrence; license suspended pending investigation into an accident which occurred on Aug. 9, which resulted in the death of Margaret McKee of Andover.

Albra L. Reed, Stinson street, Andover; license suspended because of failure to return his license when ordered to do so.

Winthrop K. White, Reservation road, Andover; right to operate suspended because of alleged improper operation of motor vehicle.

North Reading Residents Desire Better Street-Car Service

For the purpose of securing lower fares between Reading Square and Baker's Turnout, just over the Andover line, and the betterment of the present time schedule and to protest at the uncomfortable riding conditions which exist on the North Reading line, about 75 citizens of the town of North Reading assembled recently at the Boscobel Tavern and held one of the most spirited meetings ever held in the town. The meeting was called at eight o'clock and it was 10.30 before it adjourned. William S. Bruce was chairman of the meeting and Achille Forte, Arman Avjian, Edward Turner and Mr. Allingham were the other members of the committee. Manager Leavitt of the Eastern Mass. was present and promised to do all he could to assist the townspeople.

The aim of the committee is to establish a ten-cent fare between Reading Square and Baker's Turnout. The present fare is forty cents. They also aim to have the cars run on a fifteen minute schedule between five and seven. The present schedule is half hour service. The third thing they wish to correct is the roadbed on the Lawrence line. Many riders claim that the ride from Reading Square to North Reading Junction is worse than being tossed about at sea in a dory on a stormy night. How the cars stick to the rails is a mystery to many. If results are not obtained a jitney line will be established between the Reading depot and Baker's Turnout with a ten cent fare. In fact a jitney line has already been incorporated in North Reading known as the "North Reading Transportation Co." which will be able to furnish service on 48 hours' notice.

Violin Lessons

A person's education is incomplete without some knowledge of music. The time to start taking music lessons is in childhood. Joseph Emile Daudelin, former pupil of the famous Paris Conservatoire, will be at the Briggs-Allen School on Saturdays after the middle of September to receive new and former pupils. For terms and particulars he may be addressed at Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass.

A Remedy

"My wife has a terrible memory."
"What do you mean?"
"Oh, she can't remember anything a day after it happens."
"Ah, a sad case—why don't you give her a sliver?"
"What for?"
"Why, to jog her memory."

AGRICULTURAL NEWS

Interesting Items From the County School at Hathorne. Helpful Hints to Farmers

Poultry Field Day

A full program is planned for the first Essex County Field Day to be held on the lawn of the Essex County Agricultural School, Hathorne, Mass., Saturday afternoon, August 27th, at 2.15 o'clock. This meeting offers an exceptional opportunity for poultry raisers to visit the Egg Laying Contest and the School Poultry Plant, to talk their problems over with other poultry raisers, and to ask questions of the different specialists present.

PROGRAM

- 2.15 p.m. "The School as a Factor in the Poultry Industry in Essex County," by Fred A. Smith, Director Essex County Agricultural School.
- 2.30 p.m. "Using Pullets for Breeders," by A. W. Richardson, New Hampshire State College.
- 5.30 p.m. "Culling: A Factor in Breeding," by W. C. Monahan, Massachusetts Agricultural School.
- 4.10 p.m. "First Essex County Home Egg Laying Contest," by John S. Carver, Poultry Specialist and Instructor, Essex County Agricultural School.

The Essex County Agricultural School opens under auspicious conditions on September 6th. The staff is without broken ranks, and there is every prospect of a large entering class.

The school grounds are in excellent shape at present, due to the constant attention of Herman Herrick, a member of the class of 1921.

The field of fodder corn, directly below the dairy barn, is receiving the favorable comments from visitors to the farm.

Seasonal Notes

Now is the time to bud seedling trees. This applies to all the common fruit trees.

Two revised bulletins from the State Department of Agriculture have come our notice which will be of interest to farmers; i. e. Orchard Series No. 2 and Small Fruits and Berries, Bulletin No. 4.

The cultivated orchard, if on a side hill, should now be sown to rye and vetch or some other winter cover crop to prevent soil erosion and to provide green manure for plowing under in the spring.

About Cut Flowers

When gathering flowers for bouquets, it is best to cut them with a knife and make a slanting cut, because it gives the stem a better chance to drink water.

When scissors are used the cutting causes the stem to be pressed so hard it closes and when it hits the bottom of the vase there is little chance for the flower to drink all the water it needs.

If a sharp knife is used and the stem is given a slanting cut the end can rest on the bottom of the vase and yet there will be a chance for the water to be absorbed by the stem.

American Legion Notes

Alleged failure of the Federal Board for Vocational Education to provide equipment for the summer camp it established on Fire Island, N. Y., for disabled service men will be gone into at the state convention of the American Legion at Jamestown, N. Y., in September. The Legion charges that the disabled men virtually would have been abandoned had not the state provided tents and cooking utensils after the War Department had declined to do so.

Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, and Marshal Foch are traveling to Metz and Flirey with the delegation of the American Legion revisiting France, according to cable dispatches. The Legionnaires attended the dedication of the Joan of Arc statue at Blois, given by the city of New York.

The famed Waldorf Astoria hotel on Fifth Avenue will be used by posts of the American Legion in New York city this year for their annual Victory Ball November 10-11. President Harding has accepted an invitation to be honorary chairman of the Ball and invitations have gone to Cabinet members and allied embassy staffs. Delegates from foreign powers who will attend the disarmament conference at Washington on November 11 will be invited.

Following their successful ascent last month of Mount Hood, one of the high peaks of the Pacific coast ranges, members of Hood River post of the American Legion have announced that the climb will be made annually. Governor Olcott and Secretary of State Koser led the Alpine party of 85, composed of Legionnaires and state officials. The climb required two days and a night.

The first of the party of six observers who were the only persons in America to witness the mysterious "new star," visible when the earth passed through the tail of a comet last month, was Eddie Rickenbacker, premier American ace and member of the American Legion in California. The party was stationed at the Lick Observatory.

Argentina celebrated the inauguration of faster boat service between New York and South America recently when the new American passenger liner, American Legion, concluded her maiden voyage at the port of Buenos Ayres. The post of the Legion there and government officials held a reception for the American liner's crew.

Following the announcement of the Rev. John W. Inzer, Baptist minister of Chattanooga, Tenn., that he would marry free of charge all service men attending the third annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City this fall, provided they furnish the brides, a Kansas City jeweler has announced that he will furnish wedding rings for the couples, "even if there are 1,000 of them."

The American Federation of Labor and the American Legion in Hawaii are working together to obtain passage of the Hawaii bill now before Congress. They ask for the Americanization of the island as against Japanese domination, in the interest of the territory's two industries, tobacco growing and coffee raising.

Move Around Before Ivy Climbs Up Your Legs

When the days are long, get ready to file off the ball and chain.

Wait until the asters are blooming and then, no matter where you are, go somewhere else. Only an oyster remains forever at the old homestead.

If the all-wise Arranger had meant for you to look out of the same window all the time, he wouldn't have given you legs.

The planet you are now visiting may be the only one you ever see. Even if you get a transfer, the next one may not have any Grand Canyon or Niagara Falls.

Move around before the ivy begins to climb up your legs.

It is true that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but it gets rid of the rough corners, and takes on a lovely polish. Besides, who wants to be covered with moss.

Go on a journey every year so that you may jolt out of your brittle head-piece the notion that our home township is the steering-gear of the universe.

Some hermits are learned, but only the travelers are wise.

If you have earned a vacation, take it. The time has come to exchange your cold currency for some new sensations. You are due to accept a reward for all the years of sacrifice and denial. But you worry. If you splurge around and have a good time, maybe the children will not have all the funds they need, fifteen years hence, to keep them in red touring cars and squirrel coats.

You are afraid to make a will reading as follows:

"Dear Offspring: Go out and get it, the same as I did."

Think of the thousands of worthy old people now penned up at home who ought to be scooting about in henrys and lake steamers and Pullman cars, rounding out the long day of toil with a late afternoon of gleeful enjoyment! It wouldn't cost them a cent. The heirs would pay all the bills.

We need in this country many Night Schools for Old People. It is time to declare for the rights and privileges of the passing generation. The world and the fullness thereof do not belong entirely to the flapper with the concealed ears and the dancing tadpole whose belt-line is just below the shoulder blades.

Take your vacations while you can get them. Eventually you may not be able to name the spots you are going to visit next.—George Ade in Cosmopolitan.

Highways and Civilization

The building of highways is such a prosaic sort of job that few people tie up much poetry to it, or even apply very much imagination to it, yet if one will only associate the developing highway with all the other forms of intercommunication upon which civilization has been based, he will have little difficulty in seeing much more in an improved highway than the smooth surface over which he rides.

In this connection, it is interesting to read one of the recent pleas for better highways as it is linked with the startling situation in China. The writer says:—

"Over in China there is an area about the size of the State of Pennsylvania where fifty million people are starving. Every blade of grass, every green leaf or shrub, every grain, berry or herb has been eaten. The bark has been eaten from all the trees. Millions have died and despite world-wide relief efforts, millions more will die. The Great War was a catastrophe, but no such tragedy as this. In all recorded history only two or three pages tell a tale as horrible as China's famine.

"Yet the very next province is one of the most fruitful sections of the world. Grains, vegetables and fruits in abundance. Think of Pennsylvania starving and New York with plenty and you have the right mental perspective. Such a condition could not occur in this country. The specter of famine might be seen and felt but the actual pinch of desperate hunger would be unknown even on the remotest hilltop. Relief would come over every highway and railway.

"In China there is not a single modern highway between the fertile province where song and laughter are heard and the lean province where the children are too weak to cry for food. When the relief agents went to China they found it would cost far more to bring food from that rich province next door than it would cost to transport it from Europe or America. When China establishes some kind of a transportation system more elevated than the wheelbarrow its periodic starvings will cease.

"When the whole world shall have learned the lesson that the march of civilization demands a proper expansion of all agencies of transportation, including waterways, railways and motorized highways, then such tragedies as China's will cease from the earth, but this will not come and cannot come by inaction or retrogression. What every country needs is an overflow spirit in establishing quick communication and continuous commerce; satisfied with nothing less than safe

Editorial Cinders

The latest statistics relative to New England industries are hopeful and yet not as satisfying as we might all wish. They indicate that our textile business has held its own to a remarkable degree, and that boots and shoes have fallen off a trifle in comparison with the development of that industry in other sections of the country. The one disturbing situation in connection with New England industry is entirely related to the problem of export business. Find some way to take care of about one third of the production, not only in New England, but of the entire United States, through channels that carry it to other parts of the world, and there will be an uninterrupted prosperity for this nation. Failing such an outlet, we may wisely face a situation which bids fair to make a slowing-up for some time to come.

That new piece of highway between Andover and Lowell, carrying the rider between Haggetts' Pond over a splendid surface that has just been completed, adds another delightful ride to the many around the town. The road is splendidly constructed and is a credit to Superintendent Cole for an excellent job.

Notwithstanding several efforts to establish a golf course in Andover, it begins to look as if Andover golfers had linked themselves so closely with their neighbors in Lawrence, North Andover and Reading, that it would be pretty difficult to start a new course here at home. Yet how few places there are in New England at the present time, with natural conditions calling for this kind of pleasure close at hand through a local golf course.

The tax rate is pretty satisfactory as compared with rates all around us. One cannot read that valuation book without wondering what may happen to some people when some other people fix valuations. Referring to the rate, could any better index to high rents be found than a comparison of tax rates of 1921, ranging from $24 to $10 per $1000, with rates of ten years ago ranging from $8 to $20, with the $20 rate a single isolated case?

Presented With Gold Piece

The Carrie Buchan association held an outing at Nantasket beach Wednesday attended by nearly one hundred members. The party patronized all of the attractions at the famous beach resort and also enjoyed the bathing.

A bountiful shore dinner was enjoyed at one of the hotels and at the close Mrs. Crocker of Barnstable presented Mrs. Carrie S. Buchan with a gold piece in honor of her birthday. Mrs. Buchan accepted in a suitable speech.

The Carrie Buchan association is composed of the state aids of the Women's Relief Corps of Massachusetts and was organized last Spring at the annual state convention in honor of Mrs. Buchan and in recognition of her work for the Grand Army veterans. Those present from town were Mrs. Buchan, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Elmer Davis, Mrs. Edward Cole and Mrs. Alexander Crockett.

The next outing of the association will be held with Mrs. Margaret Nickerson, Reading Highlands, on Wednesday, Sept. 21, with the G. A. R. veterans of the Soldiers' home, Chelsea, as guests. A basket lunch will be served and every member is urged to attend.

Enters Plea of Not Guilty

Henry A. Bodwell, 31 Morton street, treasurer of the Smith & Dove company, pleaded not guilty to the charge of driving so as to endanger life, when he was arraigned Tuesday morning in Woburn district court before Judge John Maguire. The case was continued until September 15 and Mr. Bodwell was released on his own recognizance. He was represented by the law firm of Warren Stackpole of Boston.

The charge is the result of the death of George Leighton of North Reading, who died in the Lawrence General hospital from injuries sustained when Mr. Bodwell's car crashed into the motorcycle he was riding at No. Reading on Wednesday of last week. At another preliminary hearing held last Friday, Judge Mahoney refused to hold Mr. Bodwell on a manslaughter charge.

Real Estate Transfers

Among the realty transfers recorded at the Lawrence registry of deeds during the past week were the following:

John M. Hathaway to Thos. F. Haley, Kenneth C. Foster to Harry Sellers.

Wedding

O'CONNELL-POWERS

A pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday morning at Waltham, when Miss Annie L. Powers of that city was united in matrimony to Clarence E. O'Connell, son of Mr. and Mrs. David O'Connell of 95 Chestnut street. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass at 8.10 in St. Charles' church.

The bride was dressed in a beautiful dress of white Duchesse satin trimmed with imported lace. She wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bride was attended by Miss Alice O'Connell, sister of the groom. Her dress was of orchid georgette, with hat to match, and she carried Killarney roses. John Powers, brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, and guests were present from Lawrence, Andover, Somerville and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell left on a wedding trip to New York and Philadelphia, and on their return will make their home in Buffalo, N. Y. The groom is a graduate of Pynchard High school. He served overseas with the A. E. F. in the world war and held the rank of sergeant. He is chemist for the National Crealine and Chemical Co., in Buffalo, N. Y.

GARDNER-SIMPSON

Mrs. Dorothy Davis Simpson, widow of the late George W. Simpson of Andover and daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert Davis of Boston and North Andover, was quietly married to David Alexander Gardner of Liverpool, England, now residing in Boston, at St. Ann's Episcopal Church, Kennebunkport, Maine, on Monday, August the twenty-second.

A pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Melledge of 6 Chestnut street, when Miss Hazelwood T. MacCullough, nurse at the Wood mill, and Charles Albrecht, of Dorchester, assistant chemist at the Wood mill, were united in marriage by Rev. Charles P. MacGregor of the Second Baptist church, Lawrence.

The bride was attired in a georgette crepe dress trimmed with white satin, and a white veil with a wreath of white rosebuds. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Wilhelmina Grasshoff, who is the nurse at the Washington mill, and who was a classmate of the bride at the Lawrence hospital, was dressed in pink georgette crepe with a hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Arthur Albrecht, of Ossipee, N. H., a brother of the groom. Mrs. Ethel Green, assistant nurse at the Wood mill, played Lohengrin's Wedding March. The double ring service was used, and little Phyllis Brown, who was prettily dressed in white, was the ring bearer.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion by florist George D. Millett. Palms, oak leaves and white hydrangeas were effectively arranged in the room where the ceremony took place and white phlox and a profusion of pink and white dahlias were used in the other rooms of the house.

Mrs. Frederick Butler of Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Burchard Horne, of Miss Mabel Bailey of Andover, served as assistants in the dining room. Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Horne were also classmates of the bride at the Lawrence hospital.

Following the ceremony a reception was held which was attended by about forty guests.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht left for the home of the bride's parents at St. Andrews, N. B. After spending two weeks there, the couple will make their home on Bruce street, Lawrence.

HOAR-CLEARY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Augustine's Church Wednesday, August 24, by the Rev. Thomas P. Fogarty, when Miss Julia A. Cleary of this town became the bride of John M. Hoar of Haverhill.

The bride looked very attractive in a dress of white georgette. She wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Helen Berger, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a pretty dress of pink georgette, and picture hat to match, and carried pink carnations.

M. J. Hoar, brother of the groom, acted as best man. After a short honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Hoar will reside in their new home at 26 White street, Haverhill.

See Cy Perkins at the Colonial

Have you met Cy Perkins walking up and down Main street?

You will surely want to see him again at the Colonial either tonight or tomorrow night when he appears in "Shilo" from away down East besides offering some Scotch impersonations and songs.

Tonight will be Legion night and all the members of the local post will attend in a body.

Police Court Notes

Hugh Corey was arrested Saturday on a charge of drunkenness and in police court Monday was committed to the house of correction for ten days.

William Greenough was arrested on a similar charge and fined $5.00.

Six automobiles, not properly equipped with the headlights required by law have been tagged by the local police and reported to Registrar Goodwin.

Card of Thanks

Village Fair Tomorrow

Arrangements for the Village Fair to be held on the Common, North Andover Center, on Saturday afternoon, August 27th from 2 to 7 o'clock, have been completed.

Fruit, vegetables, perennial plants and flowers, ice cream, home-made cake and candy, will be sold at attractive booths. Useful and ornamental articles on the rummage table will be for sale.

Another attraction will be a grab bag. Prizes for the best vegetables will be awarded in a competition open to all. There will also be live stock, including calves, pigs, ducks, and ducklings, carrier pigeons and chickens.

Pipers in full costume will furnish music.

If rainy the fair will be held in Grange Hall.

The members of the Executive Committee are Mrs. John G. Coolidge, chairman, Mrs. E. F. Laland, Miss Kate H. Stevens, Charles A. Appleton, and Roland Harris.

Under the new law, you must have your headlights adjusted and focused. Simply buying a pair of legal lenses will not make your lights legal.

We will focus your headlights, see that you have bulbs of proper candle power and a lense that meets all the requirements of the law, if you bring your car in to us.

MAGEE ONE PIPE FURNACES

"There is no better method of heating a house than by warm air. You might as well try to devise some better means of heating the surface of the earth from April to October than by the rays of the sun. That is an old invention of heating and will never be improved on while the world lasts, nor will a any improvement ever be made upon warm air furnished by MAGEE ONE PIPE FURNACES."

The word MAGEE in conjunction with heating apparatus safeguards the intending purchaser. It stands for good material, expert workmanship in construction, and durability, economy, and ease of management in operation.

CAMP ANDOVER CLOSES

Bad temper—Elizabeth Byrnes, Roxbury Presbyterian church.
Cowardice—Olive Mitchell, Andover.

Carelessness—Mabel Peterson, Romey church, Dorchester.

Disobedience—Grace Pallantyne, South Boston.

The exhibition of water sports included races swimming over a course of forty, fifty, and one hundred yards and form diving. Second place in the beginner's forty-yard swim was won by Olive Mitchell of the Free Christian church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell of Elm street.

The last ceremonies incident to the closing of the very successful season of Camp Andover took place last evening and included a banquet followed by short addresses by Rev. F. B. Withington, and Rev. Sidney Lovett, the presentation of the well-earned Camp Andover pins and banners, and lastly the circle around the evening camp fire.

It was a very jolly company of more than sixty girls between the ages of fifteen and eighteen who sat down to the bountiful repast in the prettily decorated mess hall. Pine boughs, sumach and ferns covered the rafters and the trailing ground nut decorated the tables. A large C. A. arranged as a monogram in red and blue, the camp colors, was conspicuous upon the wall. The light of the lanterns suspended from the rafters shone down upon well-tanned faces happy with the experience of two wonderful weeks of country life and good comradeship.

Seated with Mr. and Mrs. Withington and Miss Esther Parker, head counselor, at the head table were Rev. Sidney Lovett of the Mt. Vernon street church, Boston, a member of the committee of the City Missionary society which is in general charge of the camp. Mr. Murdoch, who is manager of the finances of the camp, and the special guests of the evening, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Foster, and Miss Ward of Nook farm.

During the banquet rhymed appreciations of the various "aunts" and "uncles," as the counselors are called, were read and created much amusement. Cheers and camp songs, parodies on popular songs which have enlivened the evening meals during the past two weeks were repeated with zest, and a few new songs were added.

It was also the closing night of the Malden Boy Scout camp on the other side of the pond and cheers were exchanged between the two camps, not only for "Camp Andover" and "Boy Scouts" but also for their leaders Mr. Withington and Scoutmaster Patrick.

Miss Parker presided at the exercises following the banquet and introduced as the first speaker Rev. F. B. Withington, more familiarly known as "Pop," who spoke a few earnest words to the girls who are about to leave camp, giving them as a watchword "Go out," in brief the same charge given to Abraham "Get thee out into a new country." He said that they had all in their two weeks of striving for better things developed into something better and finer, that he trusted they would carry into other lives as they went forth something of the fine spirit, the loyalty, and the high ideals which had been theirs at Camp Andover.

Rev. Sidney Lovett in a few words told something of the fine personality of James Fenimore Cooper Jr., for whom one of the new bungalows is named, and read a selection from one of his poems. Mr. Cooper was a classmate of Mr. Lovett's at Yale, a captain in the field artillery, and died in hospital at Camp Dix during the war.

Miss Parker spoke feelingly of the splendid spirit which had pervaded the camp and made the gratifying announcement that every girl in camp had won "counselor's approval" and that although every girl had not been able to swim forty yards yet no girl had failed on more than one of the points necessary to receive a pin. She awarded thirty-four pins to first-year girls and eleven pennants to second-year girls.

Olive Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mitchell of Elm street, was awarded a Camp Andover pin and was also mentioned as one of the runners-up for the loyalty cup which was awarded to Margaret Cellarius of Roslindale.

After the singing of the Camp Andover hymn, the entire company adjourned to the amphitheatre, where around the camp fire the daily log was read, and a few more songs were sung, closing with "Aide With Me" and the singing of "Taps."

The girls will return to their homes today and the camp will close for the season.

The counselors are to be entertained this evening at their home on Central street by Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Foster, on whose land the camp is situated and who have taken such an active interest in its development and success.

Death

August 23, 1921, at 5 Maple avenue, Anne Gertrude Hill of 10 Hampstead street, Methuen, aged 43 years, 7 months and 27 days.

MANY ACCIDENTS

The motorman claimed that the brakes on the car wouldn't work.

The automobile of Thomas Bruce of 31 College street, Newburyport, and that of Miles Ward of 37 Summer street, Andover, came together where Argilla road runs off Andover street near the residence of Miss Mary Alice Abbott, Saturday evening. Bruce's automobile was badly smashed, but no one was injured.

Thomas Friend of 30 Upland road, North Andover, reported on Tuesday to the police that while driving up Main street near the Tye Rubber factory two children aged about two and five years ran into the road in front of his car. One of the children stumbled and fell, and the car passed over him before it could be brought to a stop. As soon as Mr. Friend could get out of his car the child was up and on the run. He pursued and caught him and carried him to the office of Dr. Daley, who gave the child a thorough examination and pronounced that he had not suffered so much as a scratch. The child was the son of John Deyermund of Shawsheen road.

HOWARD W. BELL

Funeral services for Howard Withy Bell, chief chemist at the Washington mills, who died Thursday afternoon, August 18, were held at 2:00 o'clock Monday at his late home, 55 Bartlet street.

Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the Free church, officiated at the services. Associates of Mr. Bell in the chemical laboratory of the Washington mills attended the service, that part of the plant suspending work during the hour of the service out of respect to the young man. Club members of the Merrimack Valley Country club and St. Matthew's lodge A. F. and A. M. were also present at the funeral.

At the graveside at Spring Grove cemetery, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock conducted prayers. A delegation from Andover post 8, American Legion, attended the funeral, as the deceased had served at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., during the war.

The bearers were: Horace C. Landon, William Warren, Arthur Morrison, Alexander Morrison, Frederic Morrison, and Ernest Curran. As the body was lowered to its final resting place, Bugler Norman McLeish sounded the "taps." Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

The floral display was large and especially beautiful, many tributes being sent by his associates at the mill, and social and fraternal societies of which he was a member.

STEPHEN S. LEWIS

Stephen S. Lewis died Monday morning at the family home in Derry, N. H. He was born in Lawrence, March 11, 1849, and had lived there all his life prior to his removal to Derry five years ago. Always a home-loving husband and devoted father he was not affiliated with any fraternal organization. He was a member of the Second Baptist church.

He leaves a wife, Jennette L., two daughters, Mrs. H. Allison Morse of Andover, and Ella Lewis of Derry, one son, Harold E. of Derry, two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Smith of Andover and Mrs. W. F. Cutler of Lawrence, one brother, R. H. Lewis, also of Lawrence, and one grandson, Malcolm Lewis.

Prayers were said at the late home Thursday and funeral services were conducted in the Chapel of West Parish cemetery in Andover at 2 o'clock. The Rev. E. P. Tuller, of Everett, former pastor of the Second Baptist church, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in West Parish cemetery.

ALFRED V. LINCOLN

Alfred V. Lincoln, for many years a real estate dealer in Charlestown, died on Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alice Crosby of East Boston, in his sixty-ninth year. He was born in Andover, the son of Rev. Varnum and Emeline Sprague Lincoln. Mr. Lincoln had made his home for more than fifty years in Charlestown, where he was engaged in the real estate business for more than twenty years. He married Miss Ida Cook, formerly of Newburyport. He was a member of the Charlestown Universalist church.

Surviving him are five children, Alfred Varnum Lincoln, Jr., of Charlestown; Mrs. Grace Hawkes of Brighton, Mrs. Crosby of Charlestown, Mrs. Thomas Adams Lincoln, Jr., of Wellesley Hills, and Miss Florence Lincoln, who made her home with her father. He leaves also a brother, Edwin Lincoln of Pittsfield, and a sister, Miss Emma Lincoln of this town.

Mr. Lincoln was well known here and a familiar figure at the annual Lincoln spelling contest. He annually gave special prizes, in addition to those founded by his father, for the best speller in the contests for children in the grades.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Thursday at his home, 32 Cordis street, Charlestown. The body will be taken to Guilford, N. H., for burial.

MRS. CATHERINE HAGGERTY

Mrs. Catherine Haggerty, widow of Timothy, died Sunday morning at the family home, 74 Morton street, aged 83 years. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Ellen Dolan, Mrs. Dora McCarthy and Mrs. John Hurley; two sons, John and Daniel Haggerty.

The funeral was held Tuesday from her late home. Solemn high mass of requiem was sung at 10 o'clock at St. Augustine's church. Rev. Fr. Walter A. Remmes of Duluth, Minn., was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. Fr. Joseph Donohue of Notre Dame university.

Obituary

GEORGE WESTON MORGAN

George Weston Morgan, for many years a well-known resident of West Parish, died at his home on Beacon street, Lawrence, last Friday afternoon. He was born in Dexter, Maine, July 19, 1845.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon, Rev. Guy Robbins of the Church of the Good Shepherd officiating. Burial was in the family lot in West Parish cemetery.

He was a man of sterling worth, well beloved and respected by all who knew him. A good neighbor and a good citizen.

He is survived by a son, Charles W., a daughter, Gertrude M.; two brothers, Winfield C. of Lawrence and Frank M. of Boston; one sister, Mrs. J. H. Lane of Dexter, Maine.

The bearers were Fred E. Twiss, William B. Corliss, George M. Carter, and George M. Blodgett. The floral offerings were many and very beautiful.

Collegiates in Tie Game

Friday night on the local playstead the Andover Collegiates and the Lincoln A. C. of Lowell played to a 2-2 tie, the game being ended after the seventh inning on account of darkness. Two weeks ago the same teams met here and locals had an easy win. The visitors a stronger team Friday night and the game was very interesting.

Wright and Szostak pitched for the collegiates, with Bobby Partridge the backstopper. Garity and did the battery work for the locals. Hits were scarce.

Score by innings:

Collegiates 1 2 3 4 5 6 7
Lincoln A. C. 1 0 0 0 1 0 0-2

The Collegiates have lost but one game thus far this season.

Country Women Want to Meet Men

Another thing which handicaps the country woman in affiliating with most national organizations is that she does not care especially for a strictly women's organization. She feels a bit selfish in indulging in any social activity for herself, because she knows that her husband and children are in quite as much need of a wholesome social life. Besides that, she realizes that her outlook on life is restricted because she so seldom meets people of differing ideas, and she knows that she can receive comparatively little benefit from associating with other women whose horizons stretch no farther than her own. In her social life she wants new people and new points of view—new things to think about when she returns to the routine of her daily schedule—and such help she receives in a mixed organization. As a New England woman wrote me recently, "I like a mixed meeting because it gives me a chance to meet men." She went on to explain that when the neighboring farmers came to see her husband they usually did their talking in the barnyard or the workshop, so that she seldom saw them. At church she could look at the minister and perhaps shake hands with two or three other men on the church steps. All the church societies were for women alone. It was only in the mixed meeting that she met men in a social way and broadened her view of life by discussing politics, the farm business, and current affairs with them on an equal footing. This is apparently one of the chief reasons why the Grange, the oldest farmers' organization, has been so well sustained for more than fifty years, and now numbers more than eight hundred thousand farmers and their wives in its membership. It has survived where many other organizations have failed, because it adapted itself particularly to the actual conditions and needs of the country woman. Birthday Party

A large number of people met at the home of Mrs. Effie Bates last Wednesday evening, to celebrate her birthday. A fine birthday cake surrounded by candles made a pretty decoration for the table. Mrs. Bates received a number of beautiful presents. A social time was enjoyed after which refreshments of ice-cream, cake, and cookies were served.

Farewell to Boy Scouts

The Boy Scouts of Malden held their farewell service before the camp-fire on Thursday evening. A large delegation of local people were in attendance and enjoyed the various stunts which were given by the boys.

A series of cheers were exchanged between "Camp Andover" and "Camp Manning" which added to the interest of the exercises.

As a break in the usual program, one of the local girls gave several readings, which the boys acknowledged by giving her a cheer, all her own.

The "Camp Songs" were sung as a finale, winding up with "This is the end of a perfect day."

The camp breaks up today and the bugle calls will no longer echo over the hills around the pond.

This has been a most successful season for the camp, and plans are under-way for a return next year.

Poem

My time of night is hasting fast
When I shall fall asleep,
Daylight for me shall then be past
When I shall fall asleep.
To sleep in Jesus, blessed rest
For me to fall asleep;
The calmness of that hour, how blest
When I shall fall asleep.

The toil and labor of the day,
When I shall fall asleep,
Will all be over in that day
When I shall fall asleep.
The beauty of the flowers shall fade
As it doth fall asleep
To lie within its winter shack
Till spring shall wake from sleep.

The body of departed saints,
They have their death-like sleep,
But Jesus will bring back His saints,
Will wake them from their sleep;
What an awakening that will be
From out their long, deep sleep,
The image of their Lord to share
When they awake from sleep.

They rest from all their labors now,
Oh, what a blessed rest,
But soon the mystery will be clear
And Christ shall give them rest.
Oh Glorious Morn, so bright, so fair,
When they awake from sleep
To see their Saviour face to face,
And share His joy complete.

GEORGE PIDDINGTON

LAWRENCE

Monday, August 22—The White triple combination and pump bought recently by the city under the pressure of an "emergency" has been sent back to the makers because of its failure to meet the tests. Alderman Carr admitted that the combination had failed to make the standards required by the contract. The contract fully protects the city against loss, according to the alderman, as the money will be returned if the builders are unable to overhaul it so that it will come up to the mark.

A petition for the renaming of Newbury street in honor of a former local man of Italian descent, who was killed in the war while serving with the U. S. forces, was presented at the meeting of the city council, but was received without action. William L. Puffer, electrical engineer and expert, of Boston and Newton, was the expert named by City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy to conduct the city's side of the investigation of rates charged by the Lawrence Gas Company for gas and electric light and power. Mr. Puffer's place of business is at 10 Milk street, Boston. He graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1884 and was at once appointed an instructor in the faculty of that institution. He continued with the faculty until 1906 and when he resigned he had the title of Associate Professor of Electrical Engineering.

A new two-story building which will contain nine stores is to be erected by the Franklin associates, Michael Garvey and Jacob Wagenbach, on the south side of Essex street, east of Farrah's store. There will be a 50-foot front on Essex, extending back 80 feet. There will be three stores on the first floor and six small stores on the second. Excellent lighting arrangements have been made, so that the rear stores will be as attractive as those at the front. The front of the building will be of high glazed terra cotta. At present the site is occupied by the Tide Power Co., Black the Furrier, Walsh the furniture dealer, and the Candy Box. They are to vacate by Sept. 1.

Tuesday, August 23—Miss Gertrude M. Townsend and Miss Sadie M. Scott, two young women from Lawrence, who were spending their vacation at the Lake Side House, Madison, N. H., were drowned early this afternoon while canoeing on Silver Lake. The body of Miss Scott was recovered early this evening in about 70 feet of water, but up to a late hour the body of Miss Townsend had not been located by the authorities. Miss Scott was about 34, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott of 24 Whitman street. She was employed as a bookkeeper at H. J. Stanchfield's. Miss Townsend, who was about the same age as her companion, made her home with a relative at 573 Broadway. She was employed as a clerk at the R. A. Day company's store.

Original Idea

A Japanese "boy" came to the home of a minister in Los Angeles recently and applied for a position. Now it happened that the house was already well supplied with servants, so the minister's wife said, "I am sorry, but we really haven't enough work to keep another boy busy."

"Madame," said the Oriental politely, "I am sure that you must have. You may not know what a little bit of work it takes to keep me employed."—Christian Register.

Will Search Old World for Valuable Economic Plants

J. F. Rock, agricultural explorer of the United States Department of Agriculture, will leave Washington about August 20th on a three-year trip through the little-explored regions of southeastern Asia in search of useful varieties of trees and plants which are unknown to plantmen of the western world.

One of the special objectives of this expedition is a search for chestnuts worthy of introduction to the eastern United States. There are known to be chestnuts in western China and southward into Siam and Burma and even as far south as Java which form immense forest trees. The resistance of these trees to the bark disease is unknown, but since certain seedlings of a dwarf chestnut sent in by Meyer in 1906 from China have shown a high degree of resistance to the blight, it is deemed important to secure all the chestnuts of that region both for experimental introduction as timber and nut-bearing trees and for the purpose of breeding up a blight-resistant hybrid chestnut tree which will take the place of the American chestnut, now rapidly dying out. Southeastern Asia is the home of the chestnut and its relative, the castanopsis. There are more species there than in all the rest of the world together, and since Dr. Van Fleet, one of the department's plant breeders, has already successfully made hybrids between the American, Japanese, and Chinese chestnuts, there is good ground to believe that through hybridization it will be possible to produce a disease resistant chestnut forest tree to replace the American vanishing species.

In connection with this, his major work, Mr. Rock will complete his studies of the chaulmoogra oil tree—source of the leprosy cure—of the warmer portions of that region and study the various wild and cultivated plants which are worthy of being brought more forcibly to the attention of the botanists and plantmen of America.

had to put up the "sold out" sign. The liquid refreshment booths held out to the last, so that there was not a dry moment during the day.

In the cool of the evening the entertainment of singing and step dancing proved an enjoyable rest for the older folks while the younger people enjoyed it also, though with a shade of impatience for they were eager to occupy the boards themselves.

On the athletic program the baseball game was the big event, and it was rather a disappointment to the home crowd to lose such a fast and close contest. The score was two to one in favor of the American Woolen Company team.

The girls, however, won their game from the Haverhill Bloomerettes 4 to 2 in one hour's play, and while the ladies did not play as well as the men, they certainly played as hard to win. The feature of the fair maid's game was the refusal of the Smith and Dove backstop to get off third base after she had been declared out by the umpire, and though there was no lack of the fighting spirit amongst the men (the Scotch and Irish were there strong) there was not one brave enough to remove the defiant Nellie from the base.

The track and field events were well contested with the exception of the 100-yard open which was spoiled by the starter's mistake. Marland and Smith and Dove struggled through four pulls in the tug of war, the latter being declared winner, but in the final the Flax Mill men failed to face the noted Clan Johnston team. Fore River again won the Five-a-side football after beating three teams for the "shoe." Abbott Worsted were the strongest antagonists for the shipbuilders though they were not as clever at shooting, but the final was a good game as has been seen here in this style of soccer.

The programme:

Children's Races

Boys under 6 years of age: Won by William Skea; James McGrath, second.

Girls under 6 years: Won by Margaret Cairnie; Marion Fettes, second.

50-yard dash for boys under 10: Won by Chris Murphy; Edward Enslie, Jr., second.

Running broad jump for girls: Won by A. Macconih, Haverhill "Y. W."; distance, 11 ft. 6 in.; D. McClure, Haverhill "Y. W." second.

There was one other open event, the race for men over 40. The announcer called the event several times, but got no response.

American Woolen 2, Smith & Dove 1

The American Woolen team scored a 2 to 1 victory over Smith & Dove, a poor decision by Umpire Finn on the last play of the game in the ninth inning robbing the Andover team of a 3 to 2 victory. There were two out at the time when Billy Dalton hit one to Dushame at short. Dutch threw to Tyrell at first. Tyrell's foot was off the bag, but Umpire Finn missed it and called Dalton out as both Smith & Dove men crossed the plate.

There was a near riot over the decision and police intervention was needed to quell the disturbance. Manager Fouhy of the Andover team was going to protest the game but afterward decided to let the matter rest.

In the first inning the Andover team pulled off a triple play. The bases were filled when the batter hit to Sullivan, who threw to the plate, Partridge threw to first and then Lund was nailed at the plate. It pulled Sullivan out of a bad hole.

Smith and Dove scored in the second when Partridge singled, stole second and scored when Dearden booted McDonald's grounder.

The American Woolen scored in the fifth when Tyrell walked, went to second when Fleming was hit by a pitched ball, and scored on Bradbury's single.

In the seventh the local team sent over the winning run when Bradbury singled and Dushame tripled. The latter was caught at home.

In the ninth Szostak doubled and Payne walked. Dimlich laid down a sacrifice. Welch fled out. Dalton hit to Dushame and the riot followed.

Sullivan started the game for Smith and Dove and Veit for the American Woolen, but neither went far. Dearden and Szostak finished the game.

Five-A-Side Football

The summary:

First round, Fore River (Davidson, Clawson, D. Page, Joe Black, A. Law) won from Arlington Mills (Craig, Ness, Taylor, Barclay, Cargill) 3-0. Goals Page 2, Law.

Abbott Worsted (Kelly, Churchley, Farquhar, Kershaw, Kane) won from American Woolen (Hurrew, Caldwell, McGee, Gray, McIver) 2-0.

Second round, Fore River won from Smith & Dove A. A. (J. Deyernmond, G. Haddon, Skea, Low, W. Deyernmond) 4-0. Goals: Law 2, Page, Black.

Finals: Fore River won from Abbott Worsted, 1 goal and 2 corners to 1 goal and 1 corner. Goals: Law, Kershaw.

The officials were: Clerk of course, George A. Christie; starter, Frank Jamison; announcer, John Deyernmond; judges, Arthur J. Beer; H. A. Bodwell, Roy Bradford, Arthur Boutwell; inspectors, Joseph Connelly, Alex Anderson, Jr., William McDermitt.

The baby doll prize was won by Thomas Bradshaw of 8 Lewis street. Fred Dushame of the American Woolen Co.'s team won the gold watch fob offered by Umpire Dennis Finn for the player making the longest hit, a three-bagger in the seventh.

The tug of war was won by the Smith & Dove A. A. team, which defeated the team from Marland mills.

In the quiting contest many of the old-time players competed. John Deyernmond and John Anderson contested in the finals, the former winning 21 to 19.

The following had charge of the various booths along the midway:

Tonics—Misses Mae Wall, Annie Vannett, Agnes Stewart, Martha Jack, Jennie Valentine, Mae McCoubrie, Muriel Brown, Lena Demers, Helen McCarthy and Hazel Broughm.

Ice cream—Elizabeth Dyer, Nellie Joyce, Katherine Haus, Josephine Carroll, Effie Case, Mrs. Charles Gray, Mrs. Sophie Haus.

Hot dogs—Misses Florence Larkin, Lena Lundgren, Helen Poland, Jessie Bland, Rena Cote, Emma Cote and Ralph Morrison.

Candy—William Nicoll, Benjamin Brown, Charles Valentine.

Kewpie dolls—Miss Sadie McDermitt, John Sullivan, Alexander Anderson, Jr., Neil Nicoll, Mark Keane, Arthur Marcel.

In the evening the grounds were brilliantly illuminated and an entertainment was given under the direction of Frank Flagg. Vocal and instrumental solos and dancing constituted the program. Those who took part were Mrs. Marion Pearson Atherton, Miss Lillian Evans, Frank Flagg, and Miss Madeline Smith, in modern dances.

On a specially erected platform general dancing followed until 11 o'clock, excellent music being provided by Buckley's orchestra of Andover. The general committee was as follows:

Smith & Dove A. A.: Thomas Carter, chairman; Alexander Anderson, Kenneth MacDonald, Ralph Morrison, William McDermitt, Joseph McCarthy and John Sullivan.

Smith & Dove Girls' club: Miss Guenn Cook, chairman; Helen Stewart, Jessie Haddon, Margaret Haddon, Jessie Bland, Sadie McDermitt, and Ruth Abbott.

Letters from China

March 6, 1921.

Last Sunday morning three of us spent the morning exulting in the beauties of the Imperial City. I really don't know how to begin to tell you about it. It is so vast and so beautiful. Of course we are only allowed to see a small part of it, the Museum and the throne rooms.

When people have told me that the buildings were Pompeian red, and the roofs imperial yellow, it seemed as though it must be a terrible combination, but the colors with the vast space, the white marble court yards, thrilled as few things in this world have. Almost as interesting as the buildings were the people.

It cost less to get into the Imperial City that day, as the entrance fees were given to the famine fund, so there were multitudes of well-to-do Chinese, holidaying together; such interesting family groups—mothers with their feet bound, but their daughters' feet unbound, and the fathers in foreign clothes.

One seldom sees many well-to-do Chinese together, because on the streets they are just lost in the laboring and poverty class. But only the well-to-do can afford to go into the Imperial City, so we saw no one but the happy folks, and the combination of that with the beauty of the place and a heavenly day, made an impression long to be remembered.

Today being Easter, I went to the Chinese church with some others from the Language School, to sing an anthem. It was thrilling to see that church so full, that they just march the children into the church to sing and then march them out again because there was not room for them. Another interesting feature was that a woman read the scripture. The children were just as cunning as they could be and giggled and squirmed just the same as ordinary Sunday School children. I am enclosing the calendar. I thought you might enjoy reading (?) it.

When I came back from church I found a lovely pan of pansies, from Mrs. Munegard.

After lunch, Virginia Harrell and I went over to the Temple of Heaven to absorb all the peace and beauty of the place, that we possibly could; and it certainly was heavenly out there. Yesterday we had the heaviest snowstorm we have had all winter (so you see weather out here sometimes takes freaks as well as at home) so the hills seemed very near, very blue and capped with snow, the Temples' blue roofs, and the evergreen trees washed clean, and shining in the sun, and the sky was covered with lovely fleecy clouds which we seldom see here in Peking. I am sure there is no place in the world that can compare with it.

After coming back I went into the Bennett's for tea, and stayed to supper, so you see, it has been a very full and very happy day, but I have had time to wonder how many of the family were home for dinner.

I am inclosing some of the pictures we took out at the Temple.

Yesterday and today I have had delightful rides out into the country. I am afraid most people accustomed to New England would find this country very barren and uninteresting, as there is no grass and only trees in the little cemetery lots, but some way I am only impressed with the peacefulness of it, and that there have been people using these same roads for thousands of years, wearing them from ten to twenty feet below the level of the fields.

I am also inclosing a letter from Mrs. — which I think you will enjoy reading.

My dear Miss Abbott:—

Our memories of Peking are much pleasanter for having you in them, and I feel specially glad to be able to tell your family about you in that city, rather than any other, because we think it is by far the best place in which to live.

Shanghai is too commercial, Hongkong impressed us as a delightful home city with very fine people, but so small and with so little "going on," it would become very lonely and monotonous. But Peking crowned everything and I would rather be looking forward to three years there than any other city that I know of in the Orient.

Don't ever waste any time going to Mukden. The wind and dust there were bad, the people dirty and unattractive. Now in Canton they are dirty, dirtier than in Mukden, but very interesting. I might say an interesting kind of dirt.

The trip here though, was fairly comfortable and Seoul is very attractive and unusual. Look at a picture of the costumes, especially of the men, and you'll be amused, we are.

We move on into Japan Friday. . .

Fire

On Thursday last, after a very successful drive for grandmothers, we landed somewhere near the old Bodwell place in Methuen, built about 1700, with an old tree on the place, and there is a wrangle about saving it if the house leaves its present ownership. We asked at a garage near, where the old house owned by the Pioneer, Capt. Henry Bodwell, was. His dates were about 1650 to about 1710. He was one of Lathrop's troop of Essex at Bloody Brook massacre in 1675, that escaped and lived to avenge the death of fifty of his comrades; by shooting up-country Indians who strayed over the Andover line. A fine gentleman, who was having his car looked over at the Big Garage, offered to go into the office and get us where in the vicinity Capt. Henry's old house was. He was gone a long while, and came back with a report that they had searched all the directories at the office carefully and could not find the name in any of them.

I do not suppose the gentleman will ever know the joy with which our tired hearts greeted his report, but it lasted me through a long night in a chair into which I sank after a thirty mile drive for grandmothers, till six next morning when I awoke with the chimney inspector at my doors an hour earlier than he promised. By the way, we need a new chimney inspector to supplement the work of a building inspector whose powers are limited. Please mention Mr. Peter Dugan, off Highland road, beyond Missionary Lane, R. F. D. 2, as my candidate for election, if I do not happen to be around when we get one. His intelligent prompt work would tell in the care of our chimneys now fuel is so high and we do not dare to throw away paper for kindlings. Soot in a chimney made by paper and pasteboard kindlings, has been known to smoulder for five weeks right here in Andover and break into flames when the wind is just right. A fire in the forest will lurk in the peats of the earth and last longer, six weeks at least, as I know who went through the suburban fires after the great Chicago fire. Watch the ground fires better. The lightning will set a mess of peat on fire, that will burst into flames miles away from the start. Six weeks after the Chicago flames were all out, I watched a fire across the small lake from my window in Big Rapids, Michigan, burst into flame in a neighbor's potato patch, brought there by the treacherous undergrowth for miles in this hidden subway. This acts the same way with barns where lightning strikes a well packed bunch of hay. Watch out till all danger is over and soak the premises with water and watch for outbreaks.

Just a Mistake

Mrs. Gilbert K. Chesterton, the wife of the English humorist, was talking about the rather ultra suits worn by the Florida girl bathers. "I like these swimming suits," she said, "when they are worn by girls who are beautifully built. Too often, though—" Mrs. Chesterton shrugged her shoulders. "Too often you are reminded down there of the girl who said to her pastor: 'I am afraid I must confess to one sin—the sin of vanity. Whenever I pass a mirror in my swimming suit I can't help thinking how beautiful I am.' 'Oh,' said the pastor, 'that isn't a sin. It's only a mistake.'"

Work ill done must be twice done, but you are not apt to get the second chance at it.

Is this the Sort of Laundress You've Been Looking For?

A laundress who will call for your bundle and take it away from the house—

One who will wash it in clean and sanitary surroundings, with nothing but pure, rainsoft water, and mild white soap.

One who will handle everything as carefully as though you stood right there, looking over her shoulder—

One who will iron all the heavier pieces, and fluff and fold your bath towels, underwear and stockings—

And who, finally, will return everything right on time, with all your washing and most of your ironing done, and with only a few light pieces for you to finish?

Then our Semi-Finished Laundry Service is just what you want.

Let us show you what a wonderful housekeeping help it is and how economical, too.

Tournament Has Progressed Into the Final Rounds During the Past Week.

With the doubles tournament well along into the third round and the three out of the four matches in the fourth round of the singles completed, the tennis tournament approaches its close. The play during the past week has brought out some extremely interesting matches, with more than half of them going to the full three sets and a great many of the sets going into extra games to decide the winner, a fact which speaks well for the efforts of the committee to give fair handicaps to all the players. It is hardly fair, even at this stage of the game, to attempt to predict the victors in the tournament, so even has been the play.

To date in the singles tournament, H. O. Frye and F. H. Hardy are due to appear in one match of the semi-finals. S. Paine will play the winner of the match between Scott and K. Hardy, which should have been played off last night, but which was postponed through the inability of the players to meet at the time assigned. Only one match of the semi-finals remains to be played, that between McLellan and Frye and Clark and Simmers, Pratt and Burke having already reached the final round of the match by their steady and brilliant playing. The finals of the two matches will not be played off immediately but will be held over until a later date.

The results of the matches for the past week follow:

Second round of singles:
Paine defeated Wood, 7-5, 6-2.
K. Hardy defeated Bartlett, 6-0, 8-6.

Third round of singles:
Paine defeated Lawson, by default.
Pratt defeated Rice, 6-2, 6-2.

Scott defeated Clark, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.
K. Hardy defeated Carter, 6-0, 6-0.

Frye defeated Blades, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.
Johnson defeated Stevens, by default.

Mosher defeated George, 6-4, 7-5.
F. Hardy defeated Piper, by default.

Fourth round of singles:
Paine defeated Pratt, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Frye defeated Johnson, 6-4, 6-3.
F. Hardy defeated Mosher, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Second round of doubles:
Pratt and Burke defeated Scott and Lawson, by default.

Paine and Little defeated Rice and Ide, 6-2, 5-7, 7-5.

McLellan and Frye defeated Hardy and Hardy, 6-2, 6-4.

Clark and Simmers defeated Wood and Mosher, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Semi-finals of doubles:
Pratt and Burke defeated Paine and Little, 6-4, 9-7.

Demand for Disarmament Grows Daily More Insistent

This start toward permanent peace is the people's victory. It was won by organized agriculture, organized labor, organized business, and by organized women. The motherhood of the world, in local, state, county, national and now international groups, is solemnly pledged to end war. The World War to end war was won; mothers and fathers in all nations are organized to insure the fulfillment of this blessed victory. Hence the insistent demand for disarmament from the people of the United States, Europe, Japan. Daily it grows more intense. Already it is irresistible. Men and women refuse longer to breed "food for slaughter" by the new means that, silently and unsuspected, may kill whole populations in awful agony. Parents and young folk refuse to slave in payment for future wars inspired by princes or politicians. People see in the 100 years of peace between Canada and the United States a perfect example of what they require between other nations. The Allies have disarmed Germany until, freed from the awful burdens of militarism and repudiating much of her debts by depreciated currency, Germany enjoys today mighty advantages in competing for world trade. — Herbert Myrick in Farm and Home.

Country's Fur Industry Assuming Large Proportions

The United States leads the world in the production and use of furs. Great industries, which involve large amounts of capital and employ thousands of persons, have been built up and established in this country. In 1920 the sale of furs amounted to practically $100,000,000, and, according to the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, the gross business in connection with the import, export, and handling of domestic furs in New York City alone during 1919 amounted to $375,000,000.

During the time that these great industries were developing, the heavy market demand for furs and the high prices prevailing stimulated activity on the part of trappers to such an extent that, especially in the past decade, there has been a marked decrease in the supply of wild fur-bearing animals. The recent depression in the fur market is thought to be a transient feature of readjustment attending a return of markets to normal conditions.

Several kinds of wild fur bearers have been successfully reared in captivity on fur farms. The largest investments at present are being made in connection with the rearing of silver-black foxes, and it is here that the greatest profits have been realized during recent years.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Couple Among the Oldest Residents of the Village Celebrated Fiftieth Anniversary Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips of 36 Union street celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home last Wednesday.

They were married in St. Mary's church, Lawrence, on August 24, 1871, by the late Rev. Fr. Thomas Field who was afterwards their parish priest at St. Augustine's church, Andover. Fr. Field's advice was not to build castles in the air but grow as the years went by. They followed his advice and the 50 years of their married life have been particularly happy. Six children and four grandchildren have blessed them. One of their daughters, Amelia, died, but all the others are with them in celebrating the golden milestone. They are Frank D. Phillips of Providence, R. I., Michael F. Phillips of Andover; Mrs. John M. Lynch of Lawrence, Miss Gertrude M. Phillips of Andover and Miss Agnes V. Phillips of the official staff at the state farm at Bridgewater.

Mr. Phillips was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, on October 12, 1838, and when but 11 years old came to Andover with his parents, who settled in Frye Village of the old days. Mr. Phillips' whole life has been spent there. At 15 he entered the employ of the Smith and Dove company in their Frye Village mill, and his service with them, in many departments of work, covered a period of 58 years. He went with the concern to their new plant in Abbott Village and walked daily from his home on Union street near the Lawrence line to his work until he retired nine years ago, when he received a well deserved pension from the company to help him enjoy the twilight of his life.

Mrs. Phillips (Mary McDonald) was born in Newfoundland on June 7, 1848, and was employed by Sylvester Smith in Frye Village whose estate included the land on which the Phillips home stands. Their home was built 30 years ago and in keeping it immaculate is her pride. Although past the three score years and ten of the Psalmist, she is more vigorous than women many years her junior.

Mr. Phillips is the oldest resident of Frye Village. He has spent nearly three-quarters of a century there and has seen many changes, the most radical of which is the new Shawsheen Village. The present change does not impress him although he realizes the importance of the improvements.

He likes to remember the Old Frye Village which he says was a beehive of industry when he went there. There was a flax mill, a saw mill, a laundry, a prosperous printers' ink shop, and a carriage and wagon shop, from which the products went all over New England. There were shoemaker shops and as many as 36 men found employment in them. These were the happy days of Old Frye Village, but not a trace remains of them in the march of time and progress.

Couldn't Place Him

Mamma had been teaching Dorothy to say a prayer that ended with "And this I ask for Jesus' sake. Amen." One night grandma put the little girl to bed and prompted her through the prayer to the end, when she said "And this I ask for Christ's sake. Amen." No response from Dorothy. "Say it, dear," urged grandma. No answer. Finally, after apparent edep thought, Dorothy raised her head and asked: "Grandma, what is that other gentleman's name?" — Chicago American.

Climb Power House Chimney

Four men in the Village were lucky enough to have the opportunity one day this week to climb the 250-foot chimney which towers above the power house. F. H. Hardy, James A. Barnes, L. D. Sherman and Arthur Simmers made the trip on the weight which is suspended just above the bucket hook on the rope which runs to the top. Once there, they found a wonderful view spread out before them. The village itself appeared like the toy villages one sees in department-store windows at Christmas time. The country around spread out in all directions like a flat plain covered with ant-hills, southward to Reading, northward to Salem, N. H., Canobie Lake and the many ponds around it, eastward to Haverhill and westward to the mills of Lowell.

Sherman and Simmers both took several pictures of the village itself with the results resembling an airplane photo. They all appeared glad enough to feel hard ground under them again after the trip was over and none of them envied the workman who was up and down the chimney all day yesterday washing it down with acid to smooth it off.

Do Not Import The Poppy

Some sentiment attaches to the poppies that blow in Flanders fields. But the fields of Flanders are the right place for them. They are a noxious weed of particularly troublesome character.

Everybody knows the annoyance and loss this continent has suffered by the importation of the English sparrow. Everybody has heard of Australia's experience with the rabbit and the Scotch thistle.

These pests have been spread as a result of misplaced sentiment. Is this continent now to have the poppy, than which there is no greater nuisance in the grain fields of Europe?

If it be true that an Ontario agricultural society has ordered several thousand and packages of poppy seeds from France the order should be countermanded without delay and the members of the society should be hanged, drawn and quartered. — Vancouver Sun.

Churches Have No Pastors

Thirty-five thousand churches in the United States are without pastors and only 1,450 ministers will be graduated this year from the theological seminaries to fill these places, declared Rev. Dr. Willard D. Brown tonight at the annual synod of the Reformed Church of America.

Dr. Brown, who read the report of the church educational board, said 5,000 preachers were needed each year to fill pastoral vacancies.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

IX.—NEW HAMPSHIRE

TO NEW HAMPSHIRE falls the honor of casting the vote which definitely formed the United States. The Constitution was to formally take effect when nine states had ratified it and on June 11, 1788, New Hampshire rounded out the necessary quota of the states. This feat Virginia for the deciding vote by only four days.

The beginnings of New Hampshire lead back to Captain Mason, who had been governor of Portsmouth in Hampshire, England. Thus was the name of the colony derived and also that of its first city, Portsmouth. As a reward for Mason's faithfulness to King Charles he was allotted a large territory north of the Merrimac river. The first settlements were started in 1623 in Rye and Dover. Shortly after, a theological dispute arose in Boston, led by Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, which resulted in her being banished. Some of her followers went north and founded Exeter, not far from the towns of Portsmouth and Dover. Shortly after the town of Hampton was settled by Massachusetts people. As Captain Mason died soon after this, these four towns in 1641 joined themselves to Massachusetts. In 1679, however, King Charles II separated them again and formed the royal province of New Hampshire.

The present area of New Hampshire is 9,341 square miles. From the rugged aspect of its White mountains has come the name Granite state, by which it is often popularly called. The population of New Hampshire warrants an electoral vote of four for president.

The synod also adopted a plan for a $1,000,000 permanent endowment fund to be known as the ministerial pension fund of the Reformed Church of America.
